The Groundwater Foundation is a nonprofit organization that educates people and inspires action to ensure sustainable, clean groundwater for future generations.

Dear Reader,

The Groundwater Foundation's 2011 National Conference was a great success! It was a great combination of presentations, field trips and tours, networking, seeing familiar faces, and making new contacts. Read the article about the conference in this issue of The Aquifer, and check out more information about the conference on our website.

Feel free to pass this issue of The Aquifer on to your colleagues, friends, and family, and encourage them to sign up to receive it. I'd love to hear from you - send any questions, comments, or suggestions about The Aquifer to me at jwernhoff@groundwater.org

Sincerely,

 Jennifer Wernhoff

2011 Groundwater Foundation National Conference
 by Cindy Kreifels, The Groundwater Foundation

The 2011 Groundwater Foundation National Conference was jam packed with the sharing of information about the elements and importance of working collaboratively to protect future generations. Held October 4-6 in Omaha, was three days of speakers, tours, exhibits, and part summed up very well: "The conference was I gain knowledge on current topics every minute of Ily liked, the presentations were very honest and really refreshing."

om the conference's presentations, activities, and tting for groundwater protection...continue reading
